

Peace – a gift for all our futures

Remembering NFPB in your will

Looking back at more than a century of history of the Northern Friends Peace Board is inspiring and humbling. Friends were seized with a vision and a passion in 1913 when NFPB was set up, on the cusp of the first world war. That commitment has sustained and continues to sustain both the organisation and the many people it has reaches through its work, promoting peace and supporting those facing the challenges of acting for peace in a violent world. Our existence is a legacy of those Friends in 1913.

The income from Area and Local Meetings still forms the core of our financial planning. Additional funds from grants, gifts and legacies left to us give us added financial certainty and encouragement to keep developing our work in new ways.

Please consider leaving Northern Friends Peace Board a gift in your will. Our work for peace has deep roots and we still have much to do.

From early in the 20th Century, Northern Friends have created a legacy which informs and motivates us still. We hope in our turn to be able to leave a valuable legacy into the future. Help and join with us in our work to sow the seeds of peace.

For more information about Northern Friends Peace Board, contact:

Philip Austin, NFPB Co-ordinator, Quaker Meeting House

50 Silverwell Street, Bolton BL1 1PP

01204 382330

nfpb@gn.apc.org

<http://nfpb.org.uk>

For guidance on leaving a legacy, visit:

<https://www.quaker.org.uk/documents/legacy-information-sheet>